ACTION ALERT on Farm Bill Asking for Passage Before the Election

This spring, the House Agriculture Committee marked up the Farm, Food, and National Security Act of 2024 and reported it out of committee with bipartisan support. As of today, the bill has not received a vote by the House of Representatives and Senate action on the farm bill has stalled. Now that Congress has returned from recess, it is imperative they take swift action so a new farm bill can be passed before the end of the 118th Congress.

American Farm Bureau Federation has organized three separate letters for members to send to the Senate Agriculture Committee, their senators, and their representatives. Each letter stresses the importance of the farm bill in securing our nation's food supply, providing for low-income families, supporting essential trade and conservation programs, and investing in agricultural research.
